NEW WAR IN EUROPE BREAKS OUT

REPORT SAYS AUSTRIA IS AT WAR WITH RUSSIA

GREECE, BELIEVING THE AR-MISTICE IS TRICK WITH TURKS, IS PREPARING TO CONTINUE
THE PRESENT WAR.

VIENNA, Dec. 4.—A sensational report is current here today that hostilities between Austria and Russia have broken out at the posts near the German frontier.

The report, which is not traceable, states that two fights have already taken place, and has created intense excitement here.

Greece to Continue War—

ATHENS, Dec. 4.—Greece is preparing to continue the war against Turkey, despite the conclusion of the armistice on the part of the other three Balkan allies. The Greeks believe that the armistice is a Turkish trick and that the Ottomans will continue the war after today.

The Greek premier declares that Greece does not want to withdraw from the Balkan league.

Peace Negotiations Are On—

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 4.—Peace negotiations between Turkey and the Balkan allies will be opened in London before the 20th of this month. One announcement places the date as early as the 12th.

At the final hour today Turkey made the concession that the Turkish garrisons now under siege will not be re-evacuated. This brought a feeling of intense relief throughout Turkey.

Turks Are Happy—

BELGRADE, Dec. 4.—The Serbian consul at Salonika today served notice on the Greek government that Serbia will retain Monsatir until peace is fully concluded.

There is great rejoicing in Turkey over the failure of Greece to sign the peace armistice. It is alleged that Greece charges Bulgaria with betrayal of the Balkan league.

ation bill provides $25,000 for the expenses of the president, aside from his annual salary of $75,000, as reported. The provisions making ex-presidents representatives at large without a vote in the house and drawing an annual salary of $17,500, have been stricken from the bill.

JAMAICA IS SWEEPED BY BAD STORM

SCORES OF LIVES LOST
AND MANY VESSELS GONE

WIRELESS MESSAGE SENT FROM FLORIDA KEYS BRINGS INFOR-MATION OF THE DISASTER TO THE MAINLAND.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 4.—A wireless message received here today and sent from the Florida keys brings the information that a disastrous storm swept over the island of Jamaica Sunday, and that as a result of the storm scores of lives have been lost on the island and many small craft were destroyed.

The full extent of the damage has not been learned.

BERLAIN OF NEW YORK WILL BE TOLD BY JUSTICE GOFF
NEXT WEEK WEDNESDAY.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—The sentence of former City Chamberlain Charles H. Hyde, recently convicted of bribery, was today postponed by Justice Goff for one week.

WOULD SHAVE PENSION
BILL TO $27,000,000.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—In the house today Representative Rodden-bury moved to recommit the pension bill of the last session and cut the amount from $254,000,000 to $27,000-000.

JAIL SET ON FIRE AND THREE PRISONERS DIE

MEN PLACED IN JAIL ON CHARGE OF INTOXICATION AND WHILE ATTEMPTING TO ESCAPE ARE BURNED TO DEATH.

CROWLEY, La., Dec. 4.—Three men were cremated in an attempt at jail delivery early today. The three men, William Collier, Carter Grace and Wilson Everett, had been placed in jail on a charge of intoxication, and in attempting to burn their way out were burned to death.

THE DAILY MARKET REPORT.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Southern Pacific was 1 1/2 points higher at the opening today, but the rest of the list was irregular, although generally a shade higher. Cotton was firm at from 11c to 15c higher, with January quoted at $12.60 and May at $12.67.

The Chicago Markets—
CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—December

BARBER PRICES BOOSTED; SHOPS REACH AGREEMENT

AFTER NEXT TUESDAY IT WILL BE MORE EXPENSIVE FOR THE MEN OF THIS CITY TO GET
"TRIMMED UP."

Barber prices are going up in Daytona. While it is not usual to offer bargains in barber work the manipulators of the razors and shears in this city will probably enjoy a rush until next Tuesday, when the new scale of prices goes into effect. This isn't saying there won't be a rush after that time, but there are only a few days left to get "trimmed up" at the old prices.

The move to boost the prices of barbering has been considered by the shop owners of this city for some time and an agreement has been reached. The new prices will go into effect next Tuesday and cards showing the scale will be posted in each shop. In future an ordinary hair cut or trim will cost 35 cents, instead of 25 cents, and a shave with neck shave will cost 20 cents in future, instead of 15 cents.

FEARER IS APPOINTED GOVERNOR OF HAWAII.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—President
Taft today reappointed Walter Fearer governor of Hawaii and Ernest Mott
Smith as secretary.

CLERK BADLY HURT BY A FALL TODAY

NED MINER TAKES PLUNGE
THROUGH WINDOW TO WALK

PECK-HENDRICKS EMPLOYEE GETS NUMBER OF CUTS BY BROKEN GLASS AND IS BRUISED BY HIS FALL.

Ned G. Miner, an employee of the Peck-Hendricks company, was severely cut and bruised early this morning by a fall through the show window to the pavement in front of the Peck-Hendricks store, while engaged in handling the curtain in the window.
Mr. Miner had gone to the upper part of the show window to correct some trouble with the curtain which prevented its being readily drawn down. The stick to which the line was attached and become loosened in the curtain and while handling it it fell and in endeavoring to stop it, the curtain commenced to revolve rapidly and in endeavoring to stop it, Mr. Miner lost his balance and pitched forward through the upper sash of the window, falling to the cement pavement, a distance of ten or twelve feet.

Although his head struck the pavement and he was badly bruised by the fall, his principle injuries resulted from the breaking of the glass, which gave him several bad cuts on his right thigh and leg and also on his right arm and head.

Otto H. Wehner, of the Peck-
Hendricks store, and Ernest F.
Curtis, of Curtis & Son, went to Mr.
Miner's aid and assisted him to Dr.
Klock's office, where it was found that his injuries could be better care for at the hospital, so he was taken to that institution and his wounds stitched and dressed, following which he was taken to his home on West Magnolia avenue.

Mr. Miner is from Frankfort, Ind., but came to this city about a year ago, with his wife and infant son, to accept a position with the Peck-Hendricks company.

PLAYS HIGHWAYMAN AND IS KILLED FOR JOKE.

OWENSBORO, Ky., Dec. 4.—While attempting to play highwayman as a joke last night Claude White, aged 17, was shot and killed. He met Clifford Burden in the dark and as joke ordered him to throw up his hands. Burden, instead of throwing up his hands, opened fire and killed White.

RYAN KNEW OF SLUGGING BY COOLEY

SHOWN LETTERS TELLING OF TROUBLE IN THE SOUTH

MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE BOARD
WROTE OF KNOCKING MAN
DOWN AND THEN FIXING WIT-NESSES AND JUDGE.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 4.—District Attorney Miller in the dynamite conspiracy case today sought to show that President Ryan of the iron worker's union countenanced slugging, judge-fixing, witness buying and other forms of misconduct on the part of Philip Cooley, the New Orleans member of the iron workers' executive board.

Miller showed Ryan three letters and Ryan said he had known the contents of the letters at the time they were received by Secretary Mc-Namara in November and December, 1910.

In the letters Cooley told of knocking a man down and injuring him so that he needed a silver plate in his head, then had hired three witnesses to swear the man struck him first, and fixed the judge so he would not get a jail sentence.

Ryan said he had taken no action in the matter. He said he had known that Cooley had trouble, but did not know the details.

trip with his white bride today,
Jack Johnson, the big, black champion pugilist, announced that his wedding gift to his wife would be a racing automobile of the latest and fastest model.

The young bride smiled when the big space made this announcement, then ran up and kissed her dusky
mate.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Mrs. Hinks gave a dinner party Friday evening at the Magnolia, in honor of her daughter, Miss Lee Bowlers. About 20 guests were present. After the dinner, the party played some games and later visited the Crystal theater. On their return to the Magnolia light refreshments were served, and the guests left for home shortly thereafter, having enjoyed a delightful evening.

Mrs. W. H. Seddon, who came up from Courtenay, Merritts Island, last week because of the illness of her daughter, Miss Bessie Seddon, returned to Courtenay Tuesday afternoon, but expects to come back to Daytona soon, accompanied by Miss Sadie and Willie Seddon and make her home here for the winter, having rented a part of the Stillman house, 37 Second avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Edsall of Sussex, N. J., have purchased and are occupying Mrs. George Bartholemew's lot and cottage on Emmett street in the Kost & Gove subdivision. Mr. and Mrs. Edsall only recently came to Daytona, but were so impressed with the beauty and attractiveness of the city that they at once decided to buy a winter home here and selected the property mentioned. Mr. Edsall visited St. Petersburg last winter, but prefers Daytona to the gulf city.

Goes Either Way.

A machine operable from either end, like a street car, has been evolved in England, and it is probable that the first car will make its appearance on London streets in a short time. The bus is steerable from either end, and when it is desired to proceed in the reverse direction, it is only necessary for the driver and conductor to change places.

Fully Explained.

Every now and again some individual arises to tell us Why We Are, and What We Are, and How We Know Why We Are, and How We Are What We Know, and What We Would Be if We Weren't, and What, Precisely, Areness Is, also Wereness, and Why We Aren't What We Mightn't Have Been if We Weren't, and other simple and entrancing facts. Such an individual is called a philosopher. —Bulletin, Sidney.

Made His Blessing Retrospective.

The father of a family who had been striving to bring up his children in the way they should go was very much annoyed at his son's uncouth habit of helping himself to a few bites before grace had been said. The stereotyped form called for: "A blessing on what we are about to eat," but one occasion being particularly exasperating, he astounded the young man by adding to his petition, "and on that which has already been eaten."

Expectant.

A man slightly under the influence of liquor strolled into the art gallery, wandered about aimlessly for a while and stationed himself in front of a painting of several mermaids half submerged in water. He regarded this picture intently for perhaps a half hour. Then he walked over to an attendant and said: "Say, ole fellow, what time does tide go out, anyway?"

Will Destroy Moths.

It is said that the following will destroy moths, eggs and larvae in a closet: Place a brick on the floor of the closet and on this a tin or iron pan. Heat a brick until it becomes very hot and then put it in the pan. Pour hot, strong vinegar on this brick, then close the door and keep it closed for 24 hours. The steam from the vinegar will kill any live thing that may be in the closet.

Banishment Note.

A tested treatment that has been found excellent for ridding a house of beetles and cockroaches is made as follows:—Procure half a pound of Indian meal and half a pound of borax and pound them well together until they are well mixed. Place a handful on paper in convenient places where the beetles will soon find it.

HOW TRUE HOME IS CREATED

It Never Can Be Made Deliberately,
But Must Just Grow Through the Years.

Probably only when a man comes to get married does he realize how full the world is of people ready and anxious to give advice. This is an age of advice giving; and particularly it is an age of advice giving to those about to wed. I have a fairly large circle of young married acquaintances, and I am bound to say that every now and then I seem to come across the trail of the Advice Giver in the shape of some examples of the result of Advice Taken.

Far too much advice, there is no doubt, is uttered by "artistic" people on this really absolutely simple matter of house-interior decoration. The true home interior is never created deliberately. It happens. Throughout the years it accumulates, it develops, it grows and blossoms forth into its final beauty—or ugliness, as the case may be. The lovely old cottage and farm interiors so much imitated nowadays were not the result of conscious decoration or design; they were instinctive. They "grew." No "decorator expert," was called in to devise their harmonies, to think out pretended "accidental" groupings of furniture, window-seat, oak beams, and the rest. Beauty was evolved, just because there was no forethought, no conscious decoration.—Exchange.

WALTON ON BIRDS' SONGS

Famous Author of "The Compleat Angler" Appreciated Music of His Feathered Friends.

At first the lark, when she means to rejoice, to cheer herself, and those that hear her, she then quits the earth and sings as she ascends higher into the air; and having ended her heavenly employment, grows then mute and sad, to think she must descend to the dull earth, which she would not touch but for necessity. Now do the blackbird and the thrush, with their melodious voices, bid welcome to the cheerful spring, and in their fixed mouths warble forth such ditties as no art or instrument can reach to. Nay, the smaller birds do the like in their particular seasons; as, namely, the laverock, the titlark, the little linnet and the honest robin, that loves mankind, both alive and dead. But the nightingale, another of my airy creatures, breathes such sweet, loud music out of her little instrumental throat that it might make mankind think miracles are not ceased. He that at midnight, when the very laborer sleeps securely, should hear—as I have very often—the clear airs, the sweet descants, the natural rising and falling, the doubling and redoubling of her voice, might well be lifted above earth and say:

"Lord, what music hast thou provided for the saints in heaven, when thou affordest to bad men such music upon earth!"—Isaak Walton's "The Compleat Angler."

STOPPED THE CHILD'S CRIES

Sudden Philanthropy of Newsboy Put an End to Walls of the Youngster.

Nobody seemed to know what he was crying about, but it must have been something, for the youngster was running the entire gamut of infantile shrieks. He was a tow-headed, lace-collared little chap of four or five, down town on a shopping tour with his mother, a large, fashionably attired woman of the society type.

People along the street turned and looked at the waiting youngster, but it wasn't up to them to say anything and they just let him cry. The mother tried to hush him, but to no avail. Whatever it was that he was so lachrymous and worked up over had him right. Then strolled up a little newsboy—a lad probably nine or ten years of age, but not much larger than the five-year-old. The newsboy was just starting to eat a banana when he heard the shrill shrieks of the smaller kid. Whether as a joke or in a spirit of magnanimity he rushed up alongside of the astonished mother, placed the banana in her son's hand and says:

"Here, bo, eat that an' stop your yellin'."

And the unexpectedness of the gift did actually stop the noise and tears in about two seconds and a half.

Pretty Girls and Plain Men.
When a pretty woman marries a plain man it is not because she pities him. A woman loves a man because of his strength. His determination appeals to her, and wins her in the end, though she may not have been attracted to him in the beginning. Firmness compels a woman's admiration and respect, and that is the first step to love.

WHEN WALKING WITH LADIES

Nearly Every Country Has Its Own Ideas as to Place of Male Escort.

Almost every country has its own fashions for men who walk with ladies on the public streets. In America and in England we walk on the side of the lady that is nearer the street. Many years ago when the streets were not kept as clean as they are now, any person walking on the outer edge of the pavements was likely to get well splashed with mud and rainwater, and that is why the gentlemen took that side, so as to save the ladies' fine clothes.

In some countries it is considered better for the gentleman to keep nearer the middle of the pavement in order to preserve the lady from jostling of persons going in the opposite direction in a crowded street. When it is the rule for every one to keep to the right those who are on the left of the two passing streams are continually being bumped into. In Germany the gentleman always keeps on the same side of the lady, no matter which side of the street they may be on or which way they are going.

Money Value of Women.

If you are a married woman, and were asked to tell just what you were worth in hard cash to your husband, what figure would you name? The question is not a fanciful one by any means, but has been a subject of judicial consideration.

It was this way: The wife of an Iowa farmer bought a gallon of what purported to be kerosene, but which was afterward shown to be 21 per cent. gasoline. When the woman used some of it to start a fire with the stuff exploded, and she was burnt to death and her three children were seriously injured. The woman's husband sued the dealers for damages, and the jury awarded him $25 for the loss of his wife and $299.71 per child on account of injuries.

The defendants evidently thought that a woman was not worth $25, for they took an appeal from the verdict. The learned court, however, declined to look at it in that light, and the judgment was affirmed.—New York Mail.

Found His Place.

Two New England men were talking over the days of their boyhood when one referred to an old schoolmate who had a most unfortunate disposition.

"I often wonder what became of Dick," said his friend. "It always seemed to me that it wouldn't be possible for him to get any enjoyment out of life or to find any sort of work that suited him."

"Oh, he's fixed all right," said the other man. "I saw him in Chicago last year, where he has a job that suits him perfectly. He is station master in a place where there are fifty trains a day coming and going, and Dick sees somebody miss every one of them."

Rabbits Cause Immense Loss.

Observant and experienced men compute that eight or ten rabbits eat or destroy as much grass as one sheep. As there are so many millions of rabbits in Australia, the loss in the carrying capacity of the country is appalling. The pest in New South Wales is spreading, notwithstanding all that is being done in the shape of trapping, poisoning, fumigating, and digging out.

Child-Training.

It is not fair to a small child for the parents or nurse to be careless about the little things that develop thoughtfulness, self-reliance and self-control in a child. Self-control is a characteristic absolutely essential to manhood or womanhood, and it is not learned in a day. It is the result of patient teaching and training through all the long years of babyhood and childhood.

Pigeon Descended Chimney.

When a resident in the London road, Reading, England, came downstairs recently, he found perched on the top bar of the grate in the drawing-room a pigeon which had come down the chimney. It had brought with it a considerable quantity of soot. When the occupier opened the windows the pigeon made its escape.

Changing Hues.

"You are in love with a blonde," remarked the fortune teller, "but after you marry her, beware of a brunettes who—" "No danger," remarked the patron; "it's the same woman."—The Ladies' World.

Bustard Might Be Valuable.

It is suggested that the bustard, a kind of bird in China, be domesticated in America. It weighs from 14 to 18 pounds and the flesh is well flavored.

SPOILED A SPANISH PLOT.

Reward of Dutch Boys For Saving Amsterdam's Stock Exchange.

Of the many quaint and curious customs, traditions and privileges prevailing in Holland none is more extraordinary than a certain privilege that has been enjoyed by the boys of Amsterdam for nearly 300 years.

At a fixed time each summer these boys gather by the hundreds in the great square called the Dam, situated in the center of the city. Each boy has a drum slung over his shoulder.

Facing this square is the Stock Exchange, and on the occasion in question, just as soon as the day's business is over, as many of the boys as can crowd into the building. They proceed to the floor of the exchange, where, pursuant to this odd custom, they are permitted to march about, singing and beating upon their drums.

The origin of this custom, it is said, is as follows:

One afternoon in the year 1622 a crowd of boys playing in the Dam lost a ball in the canal that in those days skirted one side of the square. One of the lads, while climbing in among the piles on which the building stood, found instead of his ball a boat moored in a dark corner and loaded with boxes of gunpowder. This showed clearly enough, what was afterward ascertained with certainty, the intention of the Spanish conspirators to blow up the Stock Exchange while it was crowded, as it was every day, with the leading citizens of the city.

The boy who stumbled upon the gunpowder at once hurried to the town authorities with his news. The boatload of explosives was quietly sunk in the canal and the Spanish plot thus frustrated.

When the burgesses asked the boy what reward he desired for the service he had rendered the town he replied that so long as there was a stock exchange in Amsterdam the boys of the town would like to be permitted to make the floor of the exchange their playground during a certain part of the year. The request was granted, and so the custom survives.—New York Sun.

Nightcaps.

For external application the nightcap is rarely seen. It is first mentioned during the time of the Tudors. In the inventory of Henry VIII's wardrobe we come across the following item: "A nightcap of black velvet embroidered." No wonder that with such gear, as Shakespeare suggests, "uneasy rests the head that wears a crown." Poor old Bishop Latimer was not content with one nightcap. Fox in his "Book of Martyrs" describes him as follows: "He held his hat in his hand having a handkerchief on his head and upon it a nightcap or two and a great cap, such as townsmen use, with broad flaps to button under his chin." They evidently believed in keeping their heads warm in those days.

The Sailor's Toothbrush.

A bluff and coarse old time sea captain caught a sailor one morning cleaning his teeth with a toothbrush. The old man seized the brush, snapped it in two and tossed the pieces overboard. Then, his eyes flashing fire, he said:

"What are ye tryin' to do—corrupt the ship with this here effeminity? Cleanin' yer teeth with a toothbrush? Why, ye swab, don't ye know that when an honest sailor wants to scrape the tobacker off his grinders he does it, like a man, with a marlinspike or a link of chain cable dipped in cinders outen the cook's galley?"—New York Tribune.

Two Apologies.

An American editor advertises for his missing hat: "The gentleman who inadvertently took our new beaver, and left an inferior article in its stead, will do us infinite kindness by returning ours. He shall receive our warmest thanks and two apologies—an apology for the trouble we have given him, and the 'apology for a hat he has left us.'—London Telegraph.

Certain Old School Books.

The state board urges that all old school books be sterilized and tells how it can be done to the damage of the bacteria, but not to the books. We suppose it is right. It is better that children live healthfully than that so time honored an institution as the combination school book and towel survive.—Toledo Blade.

Felt Himself Defrauded.

Householder—"I give you my word, three seventy-fives is all I have in the house." Burglar—"Well, say! When ye figure me time, an' me tools, how d'ye expect me to make any profit at that rate?"—Life.

Not Needed.

"Now they are trying to make the cactus edible." "I don't think we need a vegetable shad."—Washington Herald.

CHICAGO WOMAN LANDS

AN IMMENSE SHARK.

Quite frequently you hear large fish stories from gentlemen, who, year after year, angle from the Daytona Beach ocean pier, but the honor of the most sporty landing of a huge man-eating shark of the season belongs to Mrs. R. J. Hogg, of Chicago, a season guest of the White House. The great open mouth of the shark as he writhed in pain among the breakers did not daunt the fair lady, who held lustily on to the sea monster until six men assisted in lifting the shark up to the pier by means of ropes. A tooth and an eye from the shark are being mounted for Mrs. Hogg as a souvenir of her trip to Florida, and well may she be proud of her trophy, as it is probably the largest specimen of a shark yet caught at the pier.

Books Ruthlessly Destroyed.

The Puritans destroyed many collections of books in the monasteries, and even Cromwell burned the Oxford library, then one of the finest in Europe. Extremists in revolution, as in religion, have been equally destructive as regards books. The Spanish Inquisition and the French revolution were as one in this respect. The crusaders were destroyers of what they regarded as heretical books, and in Russia today the war of mythology on sectarian dissent still manifests itself, among other things, in the ruthless destruction of the books at the monasteries.

The Otter a Wanderer.

Of all the beasts in the world, the otter, that fierce outlaw, is the greatest wanderer. It is as if he were afflicted with a curse that forbids him to be still, that forces him ever to push on—on—on! Rest, as rest, he knows not. Three days will see the end of his longest inaction, and the amount of miles he covers in a fortnight would amaze some folks.—Outing.

SHOULD THE WOMAN PROPOSE

Question That Seemingly May Be Relied On to Get an Argument at Any Time.

Ever since this conundrum was put to me, I have been submitting it to everybody I met. There has been extraordinary diversity in the answers. They have run from a shocked "No! No! No!" through a hesitating, "Well, I don't see why—and yet I could never do it myself," to a decided, "Yes, certainly! Why not?"

One woman said: "Under no circumstances. Nothing ever justifies us in forgetting our womanliness." Another: "Yes, indeed. In fact, I proposed to my husband. I saw that he was in love with me, but that he thought that we could not afford to be married. I knew that we could, and so I proposed to him." Another: "Of course women should propose. They are much better judges of character than men, more intuitive and spiritual." Another: "If women proposed, there would be fewer unhappy marriages. As things are, men can choose from their entire set of women. Women can choose only from those who propose to them. If women proposed more of them would marry the man they really wanted to marry." Another: "I think the one should propose who could do it the most artistically." (Note—She was a young girl writer, and I am afraid considerations of literary effects guided her conclusions.)—Harper's Bazar.

Mother Kangaroo's Bravery.

During a severe drought in a certain section of Australia, the owner of a country station was sitting one evening on the porch when he saw a kangaroo lingering about, alternately approaching and retiring from the house, as if half in doubt and fear what to do.

At length she approached the water pails, and, taking a young one from her pouch, held it to the water to drink.

While her baby was satisfying its thirst the mother was quivering all over with apprehension, for she was but a few feet from the porch where one of her foes was watching her.

The baby having finished drinking, it was replaced in the pouch and the old kangaroo set off at a rapid pace.

The spectator was so much impressed by the astonishing bravery of the affectionate mother that he made a vow—and kept it—never again to shoot a kangaroo.

Opaque Windows.

The building contractor for some of the most important business when he found that the man who had been hired to paint the windows had not yet done the job.

"That man doesn't seem to understand what the windows are wanted for," he said. "We don't plaster them over with chalk to prevent the public from seeing the unfinished condition of the interior, but to keep the workmen from battering out the glass. Transparent glass looks just about as transparent as air to the man who is moving a wooden or iron beam in a quarry, and he is likely to ram the end of it through an expensive window, but when the glass is coated with white it becomes visible, and the workmen hand their material in through the door."

The Smoking Mountain.

In 1897 I climbed two volcanoes in Mexico—Popocatepetl or "the Smoking Mountain," about 17,800 feet, and Orizaba, the former the most famous because within view from Mexico City and thus a source of especial pride and admiration to the inhabitants, who have been loath to believe that any other of their mountains could be higher. Popo has a really splendid crater, about half a mile across and one thousand feet deep. The walls are generally vertical, but in one or two places it is possible to descend. When workers are engaged in collecting sulphur, machinery is used to hoist them up and down. From Popo's summit there is a glorious prospect, not alone of the immense crater, but of the beautiful "White Lady," Ixtacihuatl, reclining a thousand feet below; of Orizaba on the far horizon, and of the charming valley of Mexico.—Annie S. Peck in "The Christian Herald."

World's Biggest Book Store.

A placard has been put up within the last day or two in Charing Cross road, where there are many old bookstores, saying that one or more is about to be opened with a stock of 1,000,000 volumes. This leads a London newspaper to state that the biggest book store in the world is the Melbourne Book Arcade, which has never less than a couple of million volumes in view.—New York Sun.

KINDLY OLD BAVARIAN RULER

Ample Reasons Why Duke Max Was Popular Within and Without His Dominions.

Duke Max of Bavaria had no greater delight than leaning over the counter of some small shopkeeper, talking gossip or purchasing toys for his great-granddaughters in Austria. Innumerable stories are told illustrating his character. R. H. Goldschmidt, a wealthy banker of Frankfurt, was once journeying to Vienna. Opposite him on the velvet cushion of the first class car sat an old gentleman, whose dress and looks betrayed no uncommon rank. "Are you on a pleasure trip?" asked the banker's vis-a-vis. "Yes," answered the latter, "I am going to visit my daughter, who, thank God, fortunately married the Banker Wiener in Vienna." "How strange," replied his companion; "the incentive to my trip is the same. I am going to visit my daughter in Vienna. Thank God; she, too, is rather fortunately married to the emperor of Austria."

The duke's pocketbook was open to all. Many a poor creature in that Catholic city told off beads for "good Duke Max," and blessed his name. A disciple of old Baltazarina, whose art had once charmed the ballet lovers of music, having grown old in her profession, was unable to get employment. In despair she wrote to Duke Max, giving an account of her situation. His secretary handed him the letter with the remark: "She deserves nothing; she has lived a fast life." "Then," answered his highness, "she will miss her former splendor so much the more," and, sitting down, he wrote her a letter, enclosing money, and signed "From an admirer of your art."—The Argonaut.

DIGNITY IN LOW NUMBERS

New York Business Men Said to Attach Importance to Figures of Their Telephones.

"Such a small thing as a telephone number has some significance in the standing of a firm," remarked a New Yorker who had little else to do but talk and observe.

"How so?" asked the other. "Take the low numbers—Broad 1," for instance—and, as a rule, it will be the number belonging to an old established firm, provided, of course, that firm has remained in one location. The firm now bearing the above number was in existence before telephones were in use at all, and in like manner it is possible to ascertain the old established business houses. If a firm moves, but remains in the same exchange, it has the privilege of retaining its original telephone number. Americans don't care much for age and long established anything, as a class, but there are many firms in this city that are proud of their telephone numbers in a system where the numbers run high up in the thousands."

Saints and Sinners.

Goodness itself can be so overgood that you can't distinguish it from badness.

When saints make sandwich men of themselves, advertising their virtues to the public, extolling their own tender, angelic qualities, you want to kill them.

If only some of the pains taken to make human beings good were expended in trying to make them happy what a different place this old world would be.

If only teachers and preachers and parents and politicians and politicians would realize that what a child needs is a little sunshine and love, their lives before them and their responsibilities would be a different kind.

There are children and grown people who are never at ease with care and anxiety that all talk of "how good" to them is useless. Their only hope—over only sensation—lies in infusing a little sympathy, consideration and happiness into their lives.

Often it is a mother—wary, body and soul. Tired of prodding, tired of working on in a round of endless detail—little, insignificant, provoking items that she gets no credit for doing, but fatal discredit for leaving undone.

Sad Sequel to Wedding.

A landed in which a newly married couple, the chief bridesmaid, and the "best man" were driving from church was knocked over by an electric tramcar in Little, near Paris, the other morning. The coachman and his legs broken, the bride, a girl of twenty-one, broke her right arm and was badly hurt in the head, her husband escaped without a scratch, and the bridesmaid and "best man" received internal injuries.

Reduced Rates.

"Comin' this way ag'in?" asked the justice of the peace after he had fined Jimpson $50. "I'm afraid I'll have to," said Jimpson, ruefully. "Wa-al," said the justice, stroking his chin whisker reflectively, "perhaps I'd oughter tell ye that we sell a return fine ticket for $75, entitlin' ye to immunity from arrest on the way back."—Judge.

Admiral Hawke's Ambition.

When Admiral Hawke was a boy, about to go to sea for the first time, his father gave him much good advice, ending up with the words, "I hope to live to see you a captain." "A captain!" answered the boy; "if I did not think I should one day be an admiral I would not go to sea at all."

One Acre for Each Inhabitant. If the land of England and Wales were equally divided, there would be a little more than an acre for each person.

TEN YEARS AGO.

From the Gazette-News, of Dec. 6, 1902.

Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Esch encountered a railroad wreck on their way from Ohio to Daytona that week, Mrs. Esch being injured.

J. A. Rose and E. D. Langworthy, owners of the Ridgewood hotel, dissolved partnership that week. Mr. Rose has since died.

The case of the government against the late C. C. Post and Helen Williams-Post was set for trial at Jacksonville ten years ago.

The residence of Ed McQueen, colored, in Midway, burned Wednesday night of that week.

Julius Calvin, a Daytona negro, committed suicide at Newark, N. J., and his body was found that week by a railroad crew in a field. He shot himself.

Sleeping Sickness Discovery.
Reports received from the commission on Sleeping Sickness working in Rhodesia state that it has been proved beyond doubt that the tsetse fly, known as Glossina morsitans, as a carrier of the disease.

The commission was dispatched to Africa in consequence of the appearance of the disease in regions where Glossina palpalis (the species of tsetse fly, which up to that time had alone been regarded as a carrier of sleeping sickness) was non-existent. The guilt of Glossina morsitans has been proved not only under laboratory conditions, but also in nature. Certain animals can act as the host of the virus without suffering thereby.

While palpalis is to be found only in narrow limits, morsitans is met with throughout Africa in wide areas, and the methods of migration and isolation hitherto employed will be practically impossible.

To Preserve Home of George Fox.
Swarthmoor hall, near Ulverston, Lancashire (Eng.) formerly the home of George Fox, founder of the Society of Friends, was bought at Ulverston, a short time ago, on behalf of the English members of the society for £5,250. His writing desk was bought for 26 guineas.

BREAKING AWAY FROM TRUTH

Two Opinions With Respect to a False Statement Minister Admits He Made.

A curiously interesting question of ethics has arisen over the failure of a minister to secure employment for an erring but repentant woman until he told prospective employers that she was a woman of good character. He had often been on the point of getting for her the work she needed in order to make an honest living and to regain the moral equilibrium which had been disturbed by her wrongdoing. But as soon as the minister, in his devotion to the strict letter of the truth, admitted that the woman had sinned, the doors of honest living were closed in her face, the "unco" good people who were in a position to lend a helping hand refusing to run the risk of "contamination," unwilling to follow the example of him who said to another erring woman: "Go and sin no more."

Now a rather lively local discussion has arisen as to whether the minister was justified under the circumstances, or whether anybody is ever justified under any circumstances, in telling a lie. Perhaps few will deny that if this minister really lied at all he strained the truth in a good cause and that the imposition practiced upon those who refused to give to another the chance of reform which they themselves would have welcomed in their own cases was intended to serve a humane purpose. All who are inclined to take an ultra conservative view of the inviolability of truth might ponder the splendid words of Dickens when he wrote Tom Pinch and the lie that he did only good to another human being:

"There are some falsehoods, Tom, on which men mount, as on bright wings, to heaven. There are truths, cold, bitter, taunting truths, that bind men down to earth. Who would not rather have to fan him in his dying hour the lightest feather of a falsehood such as thine, than all the quills plucked from the sharp porcupine, revengeful truth, since Time began?"—Kansas City Journal.

HUMAN NATURE NOT SO BAD

New York Newspaper Man Observes With Pleasure the Aid Given the Blind.

If you doubt that human nature is kind, watch the ordinary passerby in his attitude toward a blind man. The office window man was riding in a Broadway open car the other day. The car was just barely moving, owing to some blockade or other, and kept about even pace with the pedestrians who crowded the pavements in their usual daily hustle.

The eye of the Office Window casually lit upon a blind man, walking alone, with that upright tilt of the head so common to the sightless. He tapped his stick incessantly before him and moved briskly until he neared the end of each block, with its hazardous curb. The car kept pace with him for seven blocks, and upon every block some one took charge of the blind man as he came to the curb, saw him safely over and said a pleasant word in parting.

One young man stayed near him for three blocks, steering him over the crossings each time. Probably the man with the tapping stick thought the friendly guide was a different man for every block. Or does his ear become so delicately attuned to voices that he fairly sees through hearing? The Office Window man wondered if the smiles that so often light the faces of the blind come from the habit of thanking people who lend them friendly aid so many times a day?—New York Evening Mail.

Little Doubt About It.
Married a month, a young man told the magistrate that his wife had done the following things: Torn up the marriage certificate, pawned the ring, torn up her wedding dress, assaulted him. She followed him to court, he added, but he managed to dodge her. The Clerk: "You took her for better or worse, and you seem to have got the worse."

Elephant Most Intelligent.

The elephant is by a long shot the most intelligent animal under man. Some horses know a great deal, some dogs are exceedingly bright, but for real sound sense and all-around long-headedness the elephant heads the list. He is not only bright, he is a deep thinker and profound philosopher, and has been known to do things that apparently required nothing less than human intelligence. Read the books that have to do with animal intelligence, with the wonderful things that our dumb fellow-beings have done, and while you will find much to the credit of the dog, horse and other animals, you will be impressed with the fact that, next to man, the brain-power of the elephant is the greatest among them all.

No Lady Killer.

M. Durand de Belleford de Gournay, who a few months ago startled the simple folk of Coutances by appearing in a brilliant uniform covered with decorations, and managed to swindle the local tradespeople of hundreds of pounds, cut a sorry figure when he appeared for trial at the assize court today.

His only defence is that he swindled because he wished to create an impression on a woman with whom he was in love. The judge replied: "Don't talk to me of making an impression on the fair sex. You are far too ugly," and then sentenced him to six years imprisonment.—Paris correspondence London Daily Mail.

Not to Englishman's Liking.

Ridiculous was the duel General Israel Putnam arranged when challenged by an English officer. The general was to provide weapons. Arrived at the spot selected, the Englishman found "Old Put" serenely smoking by the side of an open powder keg, into which he had stuck a match. Requesting his antagonist to be seated on the other side of the keg, General Putnam lighted the match and smoked on unconcernedly. The Englishman for a moment watched the lucifer working its way downward, then beat a hurried retreat. The keg contained nothing but onions with a sprinkle of powder on top.

Tenth Century Horses.

Money values in the tenth century were very low, according to our ideas, but as the purchasing power of money then equaled from eight to twenty times what it is today, one must not hasten a comparison. In Athelstan's time a horse was worth 120 shillings, an ox 30 pence, a cow 20 pence, a sheep 5 pence, a hog 8 pence, a slave 20 shillings, making a slave worth eight oxen, and these prices, except in times of famine, appear to have changed little under the Norman. In 1156 wheat sold at 18 pence the quarter of eight bushels, and in 1243 it brought only 24 pence, but in 1024 seed wheat sold at 3 shillings a bushel, barley at 2 shillings and oats at 1 shilling a bushel.—National Magazine.

Expensive Soda Water.

The highest price ever paid for a bottle of soda water was given in London recently when one that was a relic from the wreck of the Royal George was auctioned off and brought $134. The Royal George went down in 1782, which made the soda water 120 years old. Two-thirds of the liquid remained in the bottle, the inside of which was discolored and thickly incrustated with sea salt. The bottle was of the same shape as those used for aerated water at the present time, but the glass was of a deeper green and slightly heavier. Soda water was invented in 1769, and the relic was bought by a soda water manufacturer for advertising purposes.

Pedigree of the Horse.

Geologists have finally completed a distinguished genealogy for the horse. Here is the list, with the geological eras in which each lived, as arranged by Prof. W. N. Riee:

The line of descent begins with Hyracotherium and Eohippus of the lower Eocene age. Then follow Protophippus and Orohippus of the middle Eocene, Eohippus of the upper Eocene, Meshippus of the Oligocene, Anchitherium of the lower Miocene, Parahippus, Protohippus and Plihippus of the middle and upper Miocene, and finally Equus of the Pliocene and the Quaternary, from which the modern horse directly descends. Hippation and Hippidion represented ancient side branches that died without descendants.

Left Wedding Party Hungry.

When a wedding party returned from Merstham church to Chaldron, near Redhill, Surrey, England, the other day, they were dismayed to find no wedding cake or other materials for the luncheon. It was found that the motor lorry in which a London firm of caterers had sent the goods had been completely burned down on the road, and the wedding party accordingly had to go without.

And Yet Occasionally?

"Life is not a solemn thing. Pathetic, yes; tragic, often; squalid, splendid, crazy, jolly, lit with dreams and laughter, an immense joke, and a black grief—but solemn, never."—"Views and Vagabonds," by R. Macaulay.

Lessons We Don't Forget.

Off have I thought—jabber as he will—how learned soever, a man knows nothing but what he has learned from experience.—Christopher Martin Wieland.

Goat Proved Poor Sailor.

While a man temporarily abandoned his skiff along the banks of the Chester river in Pennsylvania the other day a goat jumped into the craft. The animal chewed the shore line. The skiff swung around in the current and was some distance away when the owner returned. The goat ran from stern to prow and back again until one of its hoofs punctured the craft. The skiff quickly filled with water and sank, taking the goat with it. The goat was drowned.

Football Condemned.

Football has always had its enemies. In "The Anatomy of Abuses," published in 1583, the game is soundly abused. Its author describes football as "a bloodie and murdering practice." "For doth not everyone lie in wait for his adversarie," he argues, "seeking to overthrow him or to pick him on his nose, though it be upon hard stones? In ditch or dale, in valley or hill, or what place soever it be, he careth not, so he have him down?"

Making Others Happy.

If the individual should set out for a single day to give happiness, make life happier, brighter and sweeter, not for himself, but for others, he would find a wondrous revelation of what happiness really is. The greatest of the world's heroes could not by any series of acts of heroism do as much real good as any individual living his whole life in seeking from day to day to make others happy.—William George Jordan.

The Dead Past.

A young man was complaining to an experienced man of affairs the other day about an old grievance he had against somebody. "Forget it," said the older man. "The past is mighty dead. I have noticed that men who are always bemoaning their past mistakes or bemoaning over what they have done don't get very far. They overlook their present opportunities."

Drying Bottles and Lamp Chimneys.

Take the handle of an old broom and cut it into 12-inch lengths. Fasten these sticks in upright position to a board one inch thick, placing them seven inches apart. After rinsing the bottles, vases, etc., turn them upside down over these sticks to dry. If a handle is placed at each end of the board, it will be an easy matter to move it about from place to place.—Woman's Home Companion.

Baby a Real Midget.

The month-old child of a gypsy, which was the subject of an inquest at Wandsworth, England, not long since, was described by a doctor as the smallest baby he had ever known. It only weighed 3 pounds 14 ounces, instead of the normal 7½ pounds, and its length was only 1 foot 5 inches, as compared with the average 2 feet 3 inches.

Not Much Difference.

"Do you act towards your wife as you did before you married her?" "Exactly. I remember just how I used to act when I first fell in love with her. I used to hang over the fence in front of her house and gaze at her shadow on the curtain, afraid to go in. And I act just the same way now when I get home late."

Looking to the Future.

"It is comfortable to see one's husband sitting down after dinner to enjoy his cigar, and then there is something rather soothing about the aroma of a good cigar, too." "Oh, I don't care anything about the comfort of it or the aroma, but as long as my husband smokes, it will always be easy to tell him how to begin when he insists that we have got to economize."—Judge.

Case of Ingratitude.

When Lord H— died a person met an old man who was one of his most intimate friends. He was pale, confused, awe-stricken. Every one was trying to console him, but in vain. "His loss," he exclaimed, "does not affect me so much as his horrible ingratitude. Would you believe it? He died without leaving me anything in his will—I, who have dined with him at his own house three times a week for 30 years!"—Life.

All the Qualifications.

Among a large number of amusing letters received by David Belasco was the following: "Venerated Sir—Wishing to go on the stage, would like to join your forces. Have been a bricklayer for five years, but having failed in this branch, have decided to take up acting, the same being easier work. I am not young, but six feet in my stocking feet. Have studied elocution and am fond of late hours."—Everybody's Magazine.

National Characteristic.

A national characteristic of the French people is their habit of family exclusiveness. It is very rarely that a family divides for a holiday. For one thing, middle-class people in France do not pay visits except to members of their own family and for another, a French mother likes to keep her children under her own eyes as much as possible, both before and after marriage.

Satire on Our College Youth.

Three boys from Yale, Princeton and Harvard were in a room when a lady entered (says Life). The Yale boy asked languidly if some fellow ought not to give a chair to the lady; the Princeton boy slowly brought one, and the Harvard boy deliberately sat down in it.

Think Human Tears of Value.

In Persia the past and present are linked by the belief that human tears are a remedy for certain diseases. At every funeral, each mourner is given a sponge with which to mop off the eyes and cheeks. After the burial the wet sponges are given to a priest, who squeezes the tears into bottles, which he keeps for curative purposes. This is one of the most ancient of eastern customs. See Fifty-sixth Psalm, verse eight, where David says: "Put thine eyes into thy bottle." This custom is still followed in Persia.—From Bombaugh's "Facts and Fancies."

Roman Heating System.

Like many other Roman houses that have been unearthed in England, one recently brought to light was heated by a system called "hypocaust." The entire basement was one big furnace, from which flues ascended, built into the walls. A wood fire was kept in the basement, the fuel being fed in from an outside annex, through an arch in the wall. The house recently dug out is in a state of excellent preservation.

Hardly Satisfactory.

Glancing hastily down the pages of Tommy Jones' examination papers, the teacher's heart thrilled over Tommy's unexpectedly good showing, for not one of the questions remained unanswered. But upon subjecting the paper to a more careful perusal her pride in Tommy's proficiency had a fall. After seven of the ten questions Tommy had written politely: "I am sorry that this is a subject on which I have no information."

Power to Do Good.

The increment that comes to any human faculty through use is the sweetest of all satisfactions to be got out of work—sweeter than material rewards, sweeter than the praise of one's fellows, sweeter than purchased ease. To feel that one is steadily growing in one's power to do good—there is deeper gladness in that, to an earnest soul, than in almost anything else this world affords.—Punahon.

Explanation of Dreams.

Dr. Freud says that every dream can be taken to pieces for investigation. The dream is not really continuous. It consists of a series of groups centering about what he terms "knots," and by investigating the association of these dream-knots with one's normal life he will learn that the dream was based on a wish or on wishes, some of which may be so vague that he was hardly aware of them.

Domestic Animals Protected.

The mayor of a little commune in the Pyrenees has just issued the following decree: "Whereas the young people of the commune are wont to meet and dance every Sunday after mass and the noise they make frightens the cocks, hens and other animals of the village and whereas the result is prejudicial to agriculture, we hereby prohibit dancing within the bounds of the commune during the hours in which the domestic animals take their repose."

Depend Wholly on Coffee.

Coffee is the great staple produced by the civilized inhabitants of Liberia, and most of the planters are totally dependent on it. When the market price of coffee is so low that the yield will not pay the cost of labor and marketing and leave a margin sufficient for the needs of the planter, the plantations are neglected and, as there is no other crop to fall back on, a period of economic depression ensues.

Conjugal Amenities.

Wife—I saw Mrs. Becker this morning, and she complained that on the occasion of her last visit you were so rude to her that she thought she must have offended you. Husband—Nothing of the kind; on the contrary I like her very much, but it was rather dark at the time, and when I entered the room I thought at first it was you.

Take Time for Breakfast.

Common sense indicates that breakfast should be a substantial meal, enough time should be allowed to eat the morning meal at leisure and enjoy it. The manner in which some people gobble down their breakfast is becoming only to an ostrich. It is one of the great reasons for the existence of what is sometimes called "American dyspepsia."

No Difference to Her.

"I understand your husband is a candidate for office," said a suffragette out west to her sister in the cause. "Are you going to support him?" "Oh, I suppose so," answered the sister, somewhat wearily. "I've been supporting him for the past ten years."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Not a Practical Man.

A little lad was found on the street crying very bitterly because his cart was broken. The kindly disposed stranger endeavored to cheer up the little fellow by saying: "Never mind, my boy, your father can easily mend that." "No he can't," sobbed the boy. "My father is a preacher, and don't know about anything."

Most Farmers Know That.

Chatty Sassenach—"Looks pretty good soil about here; what crops do you grow?" Sandy—"It a' depends, sir." Sassenach—"Depends on what?" Sandy—"On the sort of soil it is!"—Tit-Bits.

OVERCHARGES SHOULD BE ASKED NOW

CLAIMS MUST BE FILED
WITHIN THE TWO YEARS

NO DELAY MUST BE MADE IF
FRUIT GROWERS WISH REPA-RATION FROM RAILROAD FOR SEASON OF 1910-1911.

Advising the growers that it is imperative that they at once file their claims for overcharges on freight made by the Florida East Coast Railway company if they wish to receive reparation for the season of 1910-1911, A. A. Boggs, attorney for the growers, addresses the following letter to T. V. Moore, secretary of the East Coast Fruit and Vegetable Growers' association, which explicitly explains the condition of affairs and the suit for lower rates of the railroad which was decided favorably to the growers and shippers by the United States commerce court, but which has been appealed by the railroad to the United States supreme court:

"Replying to your request for information as to the exact situation with regard to recovery of overcharges from the Florida East Coast Railway company, based upon the rates fixed by the Interstate Commerce commission, I beg to advise that there are two distinct classes of claims recoverable.

"First. If the supreme court shall affirm the decision of the commerce court, there will become payable on all shipments of fruits and vegetables over the Florida East Coast railway, after January 2, 1912, a sum equal to the difference between the rate fixed by the Interstate Commerce Commission in its order and the old rate enforced by the railway company. This is under the universal rule of law that where a temporary injunction has been granted, and afterwards dissolved by the court, as in this case, the party suing out the injunction is liable for all the damages that the other party may suffer by reason of its issuance, and these damages are usually secured, as in this case, by a bond.

"The railroad company will next week make a motion in the supreme court for a stay of proceedings. If this stay is granted, its effect will be to hold everything in its present condition until the final decision by the supreme court, so that no claims can be presented and collected until that time. If the stay is refused by the supreme court, the new rates will at once become effective and the railroad company will be obliged to refund the overcharges from January 2nd.

"The second class of claims come under the head of reparation. This term, as used in the Interstate Commerce act, is applied to the power given the Interstate Commerce commission, where they believe that a rate enforced by a railroad company is excessive, not only at the time when they order it reduced, but that it has been excessive in the past, to order the carrier to repay the amount of such overcharges for some time previous to the making of their order of reduction.

"Reparation can be granted only on petition filed in the Interstate Commerce commission and it is discretionary with them to grant or refuse it. It can only be granted for a period not exceeding two years prior to the petition asking for it.

"To apply this to the present case, the refund of overcharges first described will be due the shipper as a matter of right immediately, if the supreme court refuses a stay of proceedings, and later if it grants a stay, but finally affirms the decision of the commerce court; while reparation, properly so called, if petitioned for by the individual shipper now, will cover the period from December 1, 1910, to January 2, 1912, and if not petitioned for at once, can only operate for two years back from the date of the petition. As stated by Commissioner Prouty in his letter, the commission would not act upon such petition while the supreme court still has the case under advisement, but they must be filed now in order to save the right of reparation for the season of 1910-1911.

"Respectfully submitted,
"A. A. BOGGS, Attorney."

Man of No Force.
He makes no friend who never made a foe.—Tennyson.

Lack of Proper Courtesy.
There used to be a time, not so very long ago, when if one borrowed anything from a book to a shoe lace one was expected to return it promptly and in good condition. With our younger set one may consider it a miracle if one gets anything back under six months if at all. "I forgot," or "I lost it," seem to be all the apology that many young girls deem necessary.—Exchange.

No Maltese Cats in Malta.
There are a few of the so-called Maltese terriers in Malta, but they are not of pure blood, and the puppies which the street hawkers offer for sale to tourists are more or less mongrel, with a strain of the old breed. The Maltese cat does not exist in Malta; at least not one has been seen here of the color called Maltese in the United States.

Normal Education.
If education were normal, we would find it a wide, free, subtly adjusted system of transference of knowledge wherein each and all could delightfully bring their minds to be fed. Lifelong; and wherein those most gifted as teachers; i. e., most enjoying the active side of that transference, could delightfully do the feeding.—Gilman.

Positions for the Fair Sex.
Several bank presidents in the smaller towns are women, as well as clerks, tellers and cashiers. Government experts frequently are among the fair sex, whose deftness of touch makes their fingers especially efficacious for such work as that of the dead letter office.

Saving Trays.
When a jappanned tray becomes old and chipped give it two coats of white paint and one of enamel, the bottom as well as the top. Stand it on the edge to dry after each coat. It will be found as good as new, as well as very pretty. The enamel is easily renewed.

Food Kept Warm.
A flatiron stand will be found useful on the range to keep the contents of a saucepan warm without danger of burning, says the Indianapolis News. It is also useful when one desires food to simmer; there is then no fear of sticking or burning on a hot stove.

Pity the Poor Fat Person.
A fat French lady despairingly says: "I am so fat that I pray for a disappointment to make me thin, but no sooner does the disappointment come than the joy at the prospect of getting thin makes me fatter than ever."

INTERESTING AND DRIVE POINTS WORTH VISITING

OCEAN BEACH—excellent beach north for 10 miles and about 10 miles to Mosquito inlet and Government lighthouse at Ponce Park. The beach is the most magnificent in the world.

BEED, KNOX & BEED ORANGE GROVE—18 miles, via Ormond, is one of the largest groves in Volusia county and is well worth visiting; can be reached by motor on fairly good road; can also be reached by boat.

NUMBER NINE ORANGE GROVE—a large grove, passed on the way to the Beed, Knox & Beed grove is 12 miles from Daytona.

NEW SMYRNA—16 miles from Daytona, over an excellent hard surfaced road; this drive is said to be the prettiest in the state. New Smyrna are the ruins of an ancient fort and other historical spots, left by the colony of Andrew Turnbull.

OLD SPANISH MISSION—2 miles west of New Smyrna, reached by motor over good road. This mission is without authentic history but by many it is contended that this is the church built by Columbus on his second voyage to America. The altar is still extant, but at a later date the building was used as a sugar mill.

SPANISH SUGAR MILL—2 miles west of Port Orange and about 1 miles from Daytona; the machinery is still in a good state of preservation, although the mill is presumed to have been built and operated by the early Spanish settlers.

GOVERNMENT LIGHTHOUSE—at Ponce Park, 12 miles from Daytona, is reached by boat or by motor on the ocean beach.

MAMMOTH TREE—4 miles from Daytona; an abnormally large tree; reached by motor over hard surfaced road.

DELAND—25 miles from Daytona; the county seat of Volusia county and seat of John B. Stetson university; a very picturesque city; reached by motor over hard surfaced road.

TOMOKA RIVER—The scenic stream of Florida; reached by excursion boats which leave Daytona daily and run to the navigable head of the stream, 26 miles from the city. Generally a number of alligators may be seen in their native haunts. This is a trip no tourist should miss.

DELEON SPRINGS, 28 miles from Daytona; mammoth spring that throws out thousands of gallons of water a minute; a delightful bathing pool, and picturesque scenery. Spring is situated in an old plantation. Reached by motor over good road; a nice trip for a picnic party.

OAK HILL—hamlet, 10 miles south of New Smyrna; several orange groves in the locality; reached by motor over hard-surfaced road.

ORMOND—six miles from Daytona; here is located the Ormond hotel and a pretty town; nearby are the ruins of Spanish sugar mills.

TURTLE MOUND—26 miles south of Daytona; reached by boat; a mammoth mound of oyster shells supposed to have been left by a prehistoric race of people. Pottery and other antiquities have been discovered in excavating the shell.

PORT ORANGE—an attractive town 6 miles south of Daytona, can be reached by motor over hard-surfaced road; or the trip one way may be made by the road and crossing the Halifax river on the Port Orange bridge, the return can be made on the ocean beach.

CLARENDON GOLF LINKS—2 miles from Daytona and immediately north of the Hotel Clarendon at Seabreeze; the links are now in good condition. The Hotel Clarendon bears the distinction of being the only fireproof winter tourist hotel in the world.

GENERALLY, you may motor in any direction from Daytona and find places and objects of interest which your driver can explain to you; there are many by-roads through the sylvan vegetation that a visitor will greatly enjoy.

STATE HAPPENINGS

News from Fair Florida Briefly Told

George M. Lynch of Gainesville has been elected a director of the Southern Educational association, which has been in session at Atlanta, Ga.

John Roberts has been found guilty of manslaughter in the circuit court at Mayo and sentenced to seven years in the state penitentiary.

If the plans of the board of trade are carried out Starke will see the early erection of one of the best school buildings in the state.

The beautiful residence of Dr. J. F. Corrigan at St. Leo has been destroyed by fire. Dr. Corrigan is a brother of the late Archbishop Corrigan of New York.

Irving Killingsworth, one of the most prominent business men of Hastings, has gone violently insane and has been taken to the state asylum at Chattahoochee.

Fruit growers of Pinellas county around St. Petersburg are protected from theft by a new ordinance passed by the council. It prevents a thief from selling stolen grape fruit and oranges and enables the police to keep track of the source of supply in the hands of peddlers and merchants.

Governor Gilchrist has called a special election in Gadsden county for the purpose of electing a state senator to represent the sixth district in the upper house of the state. The special election has been made necessary by the death of James E. Broome, who was elected in 1910.

President-elect Woodrow Wilson, now in Bermuda, has notified Mayor DeWitt Webb of St. Augustine that he is unable to accept the invitation to attend the Ponce de Leon celebration because of the uncertainty of his movements while he is taking a vacation.

Sheriff Perry of St. Augustine has placed under arrest a negro named Will Jones, who is said to be wanted for murder in Leon county. Sheriff Perry captured the negro at Espanola. The black man is alleged to have been mixed up in the murder of a white man near Tallahassee a few days ago.

Either thrown or falling from the upper deck of the dredge Swan at St. Petersburg, Thomas Maher, a white man, received injuries from which he died. The men on the dredge are said to have been drinking and indulging in "horseplay," and the authorities are investigating the death.

Brigadier General John Steven Maxwell is said to have sent an official letter to Governor Gilchrist asking that he be retired from the service of the National Guard of Florida. It is said to be the custom for officers who have attained the highest rank in their division of the troops of the state to seek retirement and give room for the promotion of other officers. If General Maxwell is retired he will probably be retired by the governor with the rank of major-general.

His Version.
At an examination held in a junior school a composition on cats was set. One young hopeful wrote the following: "Cats that's made for little boys and girls to maul is called 'Maltese' cats. Some cats are known by their queer purr; these are called 'Purrstian' cats. Others with very bad tempers are known as 'Angorie' cats. Cats with deep feelings are called 'Feline' cats. Very fine cats are called 'Magnificats'."

Didn't Appreciate Whitman.
Shortly after Walt Whitman's "Leaves of Grass" made its appearance, J. T. Trowbridge was walking with Lowell in Cambridge, when the latter pointed out a door-way sign, "Groceries," with the letters set zigzag, to produce a bizarre effect. "That," said he, "is Walt Whitman with very common goods inside."

Thought His Duty Ended.
The Duc de Raguse once explained to the Countess de Boigne the nature of his connection with the emperor as follows: "When the emperor said, 'All for France,' I served with enthusiasm; when he said, 'France and I,' I served with obedience; but when he said, 'I without France,' I felt the necessity of separating from him."

As Is a Peach.
The Maryland baked peach is a peach and no mistake, and it is enough to have made the mouths of the gods water, to have made Jove pawn his thunder and Neptune his trident for a second helping.—Baltimore Sun.

Colonel Blood, a "Dime Novel Hero" in Real Life

THIS is the story of a man whose adventures were wilder and more dramatic than those of a dime novel hero.

The man was "Colonel" or "Captain" Thomas Blood, a soldier of CAPTAIN BLOOD fortune, born in Ireland about 1628. When parliament went to war against King Charles of England this young adventurer joined the Parliamentary army and won a reputation for reckless courage. After parliament had overthrown and beheaded the king and had put Oliver Cromwell in charge of England's government, Colonel Blood found himself without any occupation thrilling enough to satisfy him. But his time came soon after Charles II. (son of the beheaded monarch) mounted the British throne.

Blood then stirred up an insurrection in Ireland, planning to begin the rebellion with the capture of Dublin Castle and the seizing of the Duke of Ormond, lord-lieutenant of Ireland. It was a clever plot. But it failed. Blood escaped. Many of his friends and fellow-rebels were hanged. Blood vowed revenge upon the Duke of Ormond for these executions.

He fled to Holland, but soon ventured back to England. There he proceeded to work out his revenge. Ormond was driving home, on the night of December 6, 1670, through the dark London streets, when his carriage was surrounded by Blood and a party of unknown men. Ormond was seized, dragged from his coach and hustled off in the direction of Tyburn Hill (London's official place of execution and the spot where some of Blood's friends had been hanged).

Blood coolly informed the duke that they intended to hang him from the gibbet on which the conspirators had perished. The threat would have been carried out then and there had not a party of Ormond's followers ridden up in hot pursuit and rescued their struggling master.

Blood once more escaped unsuspected. His next plot was the most daring of all. Disguised as a clergyman and followed by one or two accomplices, he wandered into the Tower of London. From room to room he and his friends went, gazing in open mouthed wonder at the sights, as any party of simple country folk might have done. At length they came to the apartment where the crown and "orb" and scepter and other royal jewels of England were kept.

At a signal, Edwards, the guardian of the treasure, was attacked. He defended himself and was nearly murdered. Leaving Edwards bound on the floor, Blood snatched up the jeweled crown of England, hid it under his long clerical cloak and stroled peacefully out of the room. One of his followers stole the "orb" and followed him.

But the alarm had been raised. The thieves were chased and caught. Thus England was spared the unspeakable humiliation of losing its royal crown by a thief. Blood was thrown into jail. No one doubted that he would be put to death at once. People wondered what tortures would be inflicted on the man who had dared to lay unholy hands on the royal regalia.

But Blood's luck held good. He managed to get word to King Charles II. that if he were executed there were hundreds of friends who would avenge his death. He is also said to have been in the secret employ of the dissolute Duke of Buckingham, who was a favorite of the king and who hated the Duke of Ormond. It was even whispered that Buckingham had inspired Blood's attack on Ormond and that he perhaps counted on paying some of his own dual gambling debts out of the sale of the stolen crown jewels.

In any case, instead of ordering Blood's immediate execution, Charles II. actually visited him in prison. No one knows just what took place during the interview or what royal scandals Blood threatened to expose if he were killed. To every one's surprise, Charles not only set Blood free, but placed him in high favor at court and granted him a pension of $2,500 a year.

For the next ten years Blood was a personage of importance in London. The thief and blackmailer waxed rich (while poor Edwards was refused even a petty reward for his plucky defense of the crown jewels). At last, the lucky man went too far. He spread scandalous stories about his patron, Buckingham—probably by way of blackmail—and was arrested. He was released on bail. In August, 1680, he died under somewhat suspicious circumstances while waiting to be tried.

Literary.
'How's your son gettin' along in Washington, Uncle Jim?'
'First class. He's got a literary job now.'
'Literary job?'
'Yes. He puts fresh blotters on the senators' desks every mornin'.'

Great Artist Poorly Paid.
The report from New York of the sale of the two famous portraits by Velasquez, the one of Philip IV. and the other of his minister, the Grand Duke Olivarez, brings to light the interesting fact that he received "on account" the sum of eight hundred real (£8) for these and one of Senor Garciperez. At very much the same time Van Dyck, despite a highly successful time in northern Italy, was finding to his cost that Antwerp, his birthplace, had little liking for his genius. In fact, we find him stating that at one time he had a "certain fat brewer as his only patron." And even that patron failed him, because when it came to a matter of remuneration the brewer's greed shrank from an extortionate payment of two pistoles for the painting of one portrait!—T. P.'s Weekly.

How to Become a Neuraesthenic.
Eat no breakfast. Indulge in but one meal daily; at any rate not more than two. Eat no meat. Eat freak cereals, vegetables, nuts and fruit. Masticate every morsel 268 times—267 times won't do. Take a cold bath every morning.
Be massaged daily. Read the health magazines daily. Read all the books on how to gain self-control and on psychotherapy. Concentrate the mind upon the digestion and upon all articles of diet. Upon every possible occasion discuss your imaginary troubles with your friends and coerce your wife into catering to every dietetic whim that you can formulate. Buy a lot of apparatus for indoor exercise and roll a cannon ball around over selected portions of one's anatomy.—Critic and Guide.

Depending On.
An artist of international fame recently had a bright little Swedish girl posing for him, and thinking to keep her expression animated, he conversed with her while he worked.
"Do you go to school, Ragnhild?" the great man inquired with affable complacency.
"Oh yes," was the reply.
"And what are you going to be when you grow up?"
Ragnhild's face beamed.
"If I have sense," she answered, "I will be a school teacher. If I have no sense, I will paint pictures—like you."

Hadn't Seen Them.
"You know," said Miss Oddways, looking critically at a picture that a friend had purchased, "that landscape does remind me so of Mr. Vermillion's work. You've seen his pictures, of course?"
"No," said the friend frankly, "I haven't."
"Not seen Mr. Vermillion's paintings! Why, my dear, and you an art connoisseur! I understand he has a picture in every saloon in Paris."

This Will Do.
Callahan—Oh! want to get a book to put the photographs of all my relatives in. Oh! think this will do.
Shopman—But that isn't a family album, sir; that's a scrapbook.
Callahan—Oh, that's all right, young man; all my relatives were scrapers.

A Long Excuse.
The magazine writer rolled in late at night and found his better half sitting up, awaiting his coming.
"What have you got to offer this time?" she demanded.
"I can give you a 1,200 words story," was the reply of the writer. Whose answer was dictated by force of habit.

Apology.
Conjuror—"Now, sir, you admit that the card you have just taken out of the handkerchief is the queen of clubs, yet the card you chose and securely tied there—namely, the ace of spades—I now produce from this hat." Timid Volunteer—"So sorry—my mistake!"—Punch.

What's In Front.
The Photographer—Well, there y'are. Praps it ain't much of a picsher; but lummy, I've got to take what's a sittin' in front o' the camermer, ain't I?—London Opinion.

A runaway horse caused some excitement shortly before noon today. A broken rein was the cause of the trouble and the driver, finding himself powerless to stop the horse, dropped from the back of the buggy when in front of Commodore C. G. Burgoyne's residence and somersaulted in the street a few times without any apparent injury. The horse turned into Bay street and then south on Palmetto avenue, while the driver secured an automobile and followed the animal.

It never occurs to them that their company might not be appreciated. But just as the burrs of the field make us appreciate the flowers more than ever, so do the human burrs teach us to rejoice in the pleasant, considerate, sensible friends that fall to one's lot for the latter outnumber the former many, many times.—Richards.

A Russian princess who has attracted much attention in Paris this winter, and who is considered one of the best-dressed women in that city, declares that nothing ages a woman's appearance so much as the old-fashioned method of pushing the flesh up above the corset.

Put money into a good corset, have it fitted sitting down, and in adjusting it be sure to pull it far down and gird it firmly round the hips.

From Paris comes another hint about youthful looks. A famous dressmaker says that real lace ages women and should never be worn near the face.

It is every woman's duty to keep young looking. The worst way to do it is to fawn south through cosmetics or a kittenish manner!—(Cleveland Leader.

Consumption From a Monkey.
A report comes from Russia that Mme. Gvosheska, prima donna at the Imperial theater, is ill from consumption having been infected by her pet monkey. She fondled her pet when it suffered from bronchitis. Inasmuch as the monkey is suffering from tuberculosis, the Russian doctors decided that the disease had been caught from the monkey. It is probable that consumption would last considerably longer in the woman than in the monkey, and the chances are that the poor monkey while out of sorts really caught the consumption from the prima donna, who may have been infected long ago, the trouble though, only recently showing to an serious extent.

In Turkey the watch and clock are extremely rare and a big crowd of persons could be founded up on the street without knowing a watch among them, but the natives have an exceedingly ingenious way of approximating the time and some of them hit it with considerable accuracy. They locate two cardinal points of the compass and then folding their hands together in such a manner that the forefinger point upward and in opposite directions, they observe the shadow cast in the morning or evening at certain known hours one finger or the other will point directly at the sun. Comparison of the two shadows will determine the hours between. Another system followed in that country and some others of the orient is to observe the eyes of a cat. Early in the morning and evening the pupils are round. At nine and three o'clock it is oval and at noon it consists of a narrow slit.

"There is just one thing the hushing citizens may not do: watching a royal procession in London, and my wife, through attempts to do it, might soon find out what it is," said the traveler. "There was a narrow-sounding wind to chill a boy's skin, my flick on the garments that day we stood to see it, and my wife, through attempts to do it, might soon find out what it is," said the traveler. "There was a narrow-sounding wind to chill a boy's skin, my flick on the garments that day we stood to see it, and my wife, through attempts to do it, might soon find out what it is," said the traveler.

"My wife glanced at the long line muddy shoes of all colors, sizes and conditions, and wondered how one set of white paper could damage the display, but the policeman's tone precluded argument, so she picked up a paper."

An old colored woman, who has grown gray and bent in the service of the family who had raised her from childhood, was not gifted with an overabundance of gray matter, and her mistakes and queer ideas furnished much amusement to the young set.

"He had made for dinner did not acquire as it should be, and the waitress called Eunice and said: 'Why is the matter with the pudding? Eunice: did you make it in the usual way?'"

"Yes'm," said Eunice.

"How many eggs did you put in?"

"Six."

"Six!" exclaimed the waitress, "why, the recipe only calls for four."

"Yes'm, I know," said Eunice, "but they weren't very good, so put in more of 'em."

Things Fish Can See.
It is doubtful if fish can distinguish forms outside the water, but they unquestionably can see moving objects at considerable distance. Their instinct teaches them to flee from strange moving things and from shadows thrown on the water by persons moving along the waterside or on birds flying over. The proof that they cannot see the outlines of forms is scientifically well to distinguish between animate and inanimate objects, is that they will show no more fear of an object standing perfectly still in the water, than they will of a tree or other harmless object. That their sight when in the water is evidenced by the fact that game fishes, that prey on their fellows, do much of their feeding at night, pursuing and capturing minnows and other small fish in the dark holes.

Degrees of Vocabulary.
Shakespeare produced all his plays with about 15,000 different words; Milton's range comprised about 8,000; the Old Testament's limit is 5,642. A person of good education seldom exceeds 4,000, while many people are limited to about 300.
